A skilled staff of physicians who devote their entire time to their specialities.

We believe that a Healthy, clean, youthful man is the highest creation of God.

Our life' work is two-fold;
First: To teach men how to live so as to always be healthy, young, vigorous, strong and scrupulously clean in thought as well as in person.

Second: To cure men of their diseases—

Restore Lost Vigor, cups, open to teams with individual handicaps not exceeding five goals.

On the Westchester four young Reginald Vanderbilt made his initial bow as a polo player before a Narragansett crowd. The afternoon was cool and the fine wetaher brought out many from Newport and Jamestown. By handicap the Myopias received three goals. The game was won by the Myopias by a score of 13 to 8.

The play was slow at the opening of the match and the first period was characterized by very uneven playing on both sides. During this period A. L. Cochrane of the Myopias received a bad fall foin his pony severely injuring his left hip and shoulder. He withdrew from the game and Mr. Vanderbilt also retired from the Westchester team, the remaining periods being played with three men on a side. F. D. Cochrane was thrown from his pony twice in the third period, but escaped without injury. vitality, manhood, herve force, courage—to make young men healthy and what they should be; old men healthy and young, and restore to old age physically suffering—mentally in despair, feeble, weak, incompetent and hopeless, to a youth, lewelled with vigor, strength, courage, hope and endurance, with a knowledge that will prevent the loss of manhood though life should last a thousand years. mannood though the should last a thousand years.

line-up included H. S. Page, A. Alexander, Harry Payne Whitney and R. L. Stevens of the Meadow Brooks; C. R. Snowden, G. W. Kendrick, M. G. Rosengarten, Jr., and Charles Wheeler of the Bryn Mawrs. The Meadow Brooks received six goals by handicap. The score at the close of each period was as follows:

First-Meadow Brook, 7: Bryn Mawr, 4.
Second-Bryn Mawr, 8: Meadow Brook, 7.
Third-Bryn Mawr, 10: Meadow Brook, 8.
Fourth-Bryn Mawr, 11: Meadow Brook, 8.
The Meadow Brooks were penalized half a goal for safeties. The Bryn Mawrs earned 14 goals, and the Meadow Brooks 4. Lawrence Waterbury officiated as referee, G. I. Smith as timekeeper and J. C. Cooley, Jr., as scorer. The field was in superb form, and it was an ideal day for polo. There was a large and enthusiastic audience so loathsome on this earth as these blood diseases.

To middle aged and old men with their nerve forces gone—their vigor waning, life becomes a little less than a living hell.

Out treatment has cured.

Tens of Thousands,

Tens of Thousands,
and we tell you it will cure you.
It is a pleasant science, quick in its actions, permanent in its results—unknown except in our Institution.
It is our earnest desire to do the greatest possible around to good in curing and making young and happy our fellow men.
We urge if possible a personal interview—it is much more satisfactory to the patient as well as to the physician.
If a personal interview is impossible, then write us a full description of your case.
While our charges may seem to some to be high, we endeavor to give value received a thousand times over, and while it may be true that our patients are largely those of generous and ample means, yet we have always endeavored to meet most generously those in limited circumstances.
Everything between physician and patient strictly confidential.
If you are ailing, don't delay a day.
A healthy, young vigorous man is worth a thousand times more to his family, to his business, to his companions and to himself, than he possibly can be if wrecked through he loss of his nerve force or by a subtle, 'oathsome and insidious disease.
